Texts:

Note: Used books will only be available in the bookstore for 60 days so please purchase all of your books soon.

Supplies:

You’ll need a file folder to hold journal entries, drafts, and critique sheets. I’ll bring in some used ones if you’d prefer not to buy a new one. I will be collecting in-class journal entries each class period. I will collect drafts and critique sheets on the day formal essays are due. Please have the file folder by Thursday of week one.

Purpose:

The course is described in the catalog as follows:

An introduction to a variety of twentieth-century approaches, such as traditional, New Critical, archetypal, cultural, feminist, gay/lesbian, and reader-response, and to critical readings of literary texts from different perspectives.

Writing Assignments:

Journal:

For each class session in which there are assigned readings, you will be asked to write one or more in-class journal entries. The entries will provide you an opportunity to reflect on the material you have read and to record your reactions in a focused way. These entries are not formal and need not be polished or well organized. The act of writing should stimulate you to make connections you might not previously have made.

E-Mail Message:

Once during the term you should put an observation about course readings, class discussion, or presentations on e-mail. The observation can also be something you read or observed that is pertinent to the course. The list will be set up so that it can go to the entire list if you send it to eaf2517-I@mtu.edu or to me if you send it to eflynn@mtu.edu. Please note that “I” is the twelfth letter of the alphabet rather than the number one. The message should be at least a screen long.

Portfolio Analysis

Please prepare a portfolio analysis (at least a page long) that provides a commentary on journal entries, drafts and critique sheets, and final papers. What are some strengths of your performance on these assignments? What are some limitations?

Formal Writing:

Three formal papers will be required.

The first is a four-page essay (approximately 1,000 words) in which you describe how you read literature or view films. What assumptions do you bring to your reading or viewing? What themes do you tend to respond to? What kinds of works do you tend to favor? How do you evaluate the works you read or view? Be sure to mention specific works.

The second is a four-page (approximately 1,000 words) essay in which you make use of background material found in one of the Norton collections to analyze one of the works we are reading in class. Do not use material assigned in class. What does this background knowledge contribute to our understanding of the work?

The third is a four-page (approximately 1,000 words) analysis of an essay we have not read that is included in one of the assigned Norton texts. Summarize in detail the essay’s argument. What critical approaches does it employ? Do you find it to be convincing? Why or why not?

Presentations:

You will have an opportunity to present essays #1, 2, and 3 in four-minute presentations. The presentation should be based on the paper you have submitted but should be tailored for oral delivery. Please use at least one overhead that provides an outline of your paper and a thesis statement. Please include a paper copy of the outline and thesis statement with your paper. Also, please put a complete heading on the outline including your name, my name, title of the course, date, and the assignment.

Attendance:

Attendance is mandatory. Much of the course involves conversation about course readings. If you miss those conversations, you will have missed a good deal of the course content. More than four unexcused absences will affect your grade.

Late Papers:

Since the course emphasizes the revision process and since it is important that presentations be based on finished essays, drafts and final essays must be submitted on time. Late papers will affect your grade.

Grades:

Your grade will be based on the following:

| Journal, e-mail, critiques, portfolio analysis | 25 % |
| Presentation #1 | 5 % |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Presentations #</th>

Criteria for Evaluation:

A Papers and Presentations:

- The author makes an original contribution so that the reader becomes involved and learns from the piece or presentation.
- The central point of the essay is clear, and the parts of the essay have been connected effectively. The outline for the presentation is correct in form and effective.
- Support for the point is appropriate for the intended audience and convincing.
- The reader's or listener's needs have been taken into consideration.
- There are few if any errors.

B Papers and Presentations:

- The writing or speaking is clear, but the contribution does not seem especially original or new.
- The central point is clear, but the parts of the essay or talk could be connected more effectively.
- Support for the point is adequate for the intended audience and fairly convincing.
- The reader's or listener's needs have been taken into consideration to an extent.
- There are some errors.

C Papers and Presentations:

- Takes some effort on the part of the reader or listener to get through the essay or talk.
- The paper or talk does not have a strong focus, and it is not always clear how the parts support the thesis.
- Support for the point is not especially appropriate for the intended audience and not especially convincing.
- The reader's or listener's needs have not always been taken into consideration.
- There are a number of errors.

D Papers and Presentations:

- The reader or listener cannot figure out what point the writer or speaker is trying to make.
- The central point is not at all clear, and the parts do not support it.
- Support for the point is inappropriate for the intended audience and not convincing.
- The reader's or listener's needs have not been taken into consideration.
- There are many errors.

F Papers and Presentations:

- The paper or talk does not respond to the assignment at all or has not been handed in or presented.

Other:

When papers are returned, most papers will have a letter grade on them. If you receive a grade lower than A, you may revise the essay and submit it no later than two weeks after it is returned. A few papers, though, will have an "R" on them. This means that the paper must be revised within two weeks of the time the paper was returned, and only the revision will be graded. I will usually... suggest that individuals who receive Rs see me before revising. Please include the original paper with the revision!

Remember that formal essays should have titles. Please leave at least an inch margin on the sides and top and bottom of the paper and remember to number the pages on papers. Label all work. Include your name, my name, the course number and time, the date, and the course assignment. Be sure to indicate if the paper is a draft, a formal paper, or a revision.
