COURSE DESCRIPTION:  Emphasis is on improving the speaking, pronunciation and listening skills of non-native speakers of English. This course is for credit with a Pass/Fail grade.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:  Through pair and group activities, role-play, games, interviews, and oral presentations, the student will demonstrate:

- improved pronunciation and conversational ability as measured by means of a variety of presentations and tests
- improved listening skills as measured by tests

METHODOLOGY:  Lecture, pair and group interactive speaking/listening activities are used.

CLASSROOM POLICIES:

- English is the language to be used in the classroom at all times whether I am in the room or not.
- If you are late, enter the room quietly and take a seat near the door.
- If you need to leave class early, tell me before class begins and sit near the door so that you do not disturb the class when you leave.
- Please show respect for fellow students and your instructor by not talking when others are speaking in a class discussion.
- Drinks are permitted, but clean up after yourself; do not leave trash in the classroom.
- Turn off your cell phone. Do not make or receive calls/ text messages. Do not use other electronic devices, such as MP3 players.
Cheating is not tolerated at a university. Depending on the nature of the incident, you will lose points or be given a 0 (zero) for the test or assignment when cheating has occurred. The following are examples of cheating:

- Giving or asking for an answer on a test
- Looking for an answer on another student’s paper during a test
- Working together on assignments that are designated as individual assignments
- Copying from a source without giving credit (plagiarism)

Homework must be turned in on time. Late assignments will not be accepted. A grade of 0 (zero) will be given.

Written work must be turned in on standard-sized paper (A-4, or 8.5 x 11 inches). Work on paper other than this will not be accepted. Please listen carefully to the assignment. Sometimes work must be printed and not handwritten.

Presentations must be given on the date assigned. Students who are not prepared will receive a 0 (zero).
